OKLAHOMA CITY ATTORNEY SLAIN

Police Mystified By Automobile Murder

SUMMONED BY PHONE

Former Walton Colleague Found Dead in Car

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 10.—An unknown woman was caught this afternoon in connection with the mysterious slaying of Paul J. McCarthy, young attorney here, during the night.

Two residents near the scene of the shooting told police they saw a woman running away from the scene after they were aroused by the shots.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 10.—Scores of police and detectives here today were searching for the unknown slayer of Paul J. McCarthy, 31, attorney, found dead in his car here shortly after midnight.

McCarthy left his home near midnight in answer to a telephone call arranging a meeting with the party near his home.

Found This Morning. A few minutes after midnight the body was discovered by O. D. Honaker, Shawnee, passerby who notified police.

The slayer apparently was sitting in McCarthy's car at the time of the shooting. Powder burns were found on the dead man's coat. The bullet entered the left chest, ranging upward through the heart and emerging through the back. Death was instantaneous, according to physicians.

Revenue Theory. McCarthy served four years as assistant municipal counselor while J. C. Walton, suspended governor, was mayor of Oklahoma City. Authorities were working upon the theory that the attorney was slain for revenge. He has been active in legal circles and was said to have a wide understanding of underworld conditions here. Four years ago he was admitted to partnership in the law firm of Edwards and Lillard.

McCarthy served in the 42nd division in France as a member of the 167th ambulance company.

CAPTURE BANDIT AFTER TIP HERE

Nash, Spencer Gangster. Trained to Port Arthur

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 10.—Frank Nash, believed to be a member of the famous Al Spencer gang, was in the hands of officers today according to a message received here from United States Marshal Alva McDonald.

Nash was captured near Sierra Blanca on the Mexican border late yesterday, McDonald said. He was wanted in connection with a series of bank robberies in Oklahoma and the holding of the Katy train near these several weeks ago.

Oklahoma Bandit Ahead of Officers Here

Unknown to her, Port Arthur was host to Frank Nash, alleged member of Al Spencer's gang, here about 10 days ago, Nash coming here from Beaumont with a coterie of United States secret service men at his heels.

Four United States officers, headed by Marshall Alva McDonald, were in Port Arthur for three days a week ago and scouted the possible haunts of the alleged bandit.

At the time the federal officers stated they feared themselves about 18 hours behind Nash in his jump from Oklahoma through Texas to Beaumont and Port Arthur. It is understood that it was here the officers received the tip on Nash's whereabouts that resulted in his capture near Sierra Blanca near the Mexican border yesterday.

Port Arthur police officers here have been on the lookout for Nash since the arrival here of the United States officers.

U. S. MAY DROP PART IN PARLEY

Washington View on French Stand Discouraging

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The Hughes plan for an expert conference to bring about a settlement of the reparations controversy will be quietly dropped, due to impossibility of securing an agreement with France, it was believed here today.

Despite the fact that Secretary of State Hughes consistently and significantly has refused to state that the plan for America's aid in a reparations settlement has been dropped, the consensus here is that any possibility of successfully reviving the plan for American cooperation in Europe is slim and remote. Hughes announced late yesterday that America could not participate within the limitation on which France continues to insist.

WHEN I WAS 20

By PULLEN FULLER, Restaurant Man.

When I was 20 I started out in the restaurant business with my older brother in a shack in the Spindle Top oil field. That was back in 1902 when the boom was still on at Spindle Top, and I remember arriving at the restaurant for the first time, having just come out of New Orleans. As I went in the door I followed about seven feet tall got up. He looked to me like the worst of the Texas land men I'd heard about, so I turned around and walked outside to wait until the ruckus I believed he was about to start was over. Nothing happened then, but later I saw half of our dishes and furniture smashed when "free-for-all" broke out in our restaurant.

He's Worrying France

Germany Consents to His Return; France Worries

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 10.—Frederick Wilhelm, former crown prince, has returned to Germany, according to announcement today by the Vindas News Agency.

He crossed the German frontier at noon this ending his long exile in Holland, to which country he fled at the conclusion of the world war five years ago.

"Celebrate" Flight by Return. The Vindas Agency stated it had learned that the German and Dutch governments last week end consented to the return of the former crown prince to his fatherland.

On the eve of the Armistice which ended the war and sent members of the Hohenzollern family into exile, Frederick Wilhelm departed from Wieringen, the lonely Dutch island which has been his home. He made the trip to the mainland by boat.

Then he proceeded in an automobile driven by a chauffeur. Behind followed another car with luggage and attendants. A burgomaster of Wieringen took in this car accompanying the crown prince as far as the frontier.

Gets Berlin's Consent. The News Agency also made public a message from The Hague which stated it had been officially announced that the crown prince decided to depart after obtaining the consent of the German government.

He possesses a German passport. It is understood that the crown prince's attendant is also accompanying him. He is carrying only necessary luggage, the remainder of his possessions will be shipped later to his castle at Ock-Schena.

Leaders of the shelter were sent there for cover today.

Dr. von Kahr, who was announced as one of the new governors of Bavaria, issued a statement explaining that Ludendorff and Hitler forced him at the point of a pistol, to agree to support their program, which included overthrow of the Berlin government.

FRENCH HOLIDAY DAY OF WORRY

German Situation Injected in Armistice Observance

PARIS, Nov. 10.—For the fifth time since the eventful day when the order "cease fire" was echoed along the front from the Vosges to the sea, announcing to the world that the last shot had been fired in the great European war.

The people of this country are asking, especially on Armistice Day, when their real victory will come—the day when Germany, conscious of her defeat, will set about paying the cost of reparations.

In Paris, the celebration had all the characteristics of an allied festival. Members of the American Legion, the British Legion and representatives of the Federal Volunteers in the French army joined with the French delegations in recalling the days of strife and the joy of November 11, 1918.

President Millerand, accompanied by the premier and the cabinet ministers, the marshals of France, headed by Foch and high officers of the army and navy, arrived at the Arc de Triomphe precisely at 11 o'clock this morning and put a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, who symbolizes France's sacrifice of one and a half million men.

Following the president and his court, came delegations of veterans, representatives of the Ecole Polytechnique, the military school of St. Cyr, the Paris firemen and the Association of War Wounded, each of which deposited a wreath on the tomb. The band of the Garde Republicaine played the army call "Aux Champs" at the arrival of the president and the "Marseillaise" as the wreaths were placed in position. Then the troops presented arms and every head was bowed for the one minute silence. All over the capital this minute was observed in front of the "Mairie" of each of the 22 Arrondissements.

NIAGARA ONCE
ON BED OF SEA

Geologist Says 'Third Era' Is Near

BRIDGEBURG, Ont., Nov. 10.—That there were two eras in the history of the Niagara peninsula, when it was entirely covered with ice, and that undoubtedly there will be a third era, is the contention of Dr. A. P. Coleman, one of the most famous geologists in America, for many years on the staff of the University of Toronto, who was in the Niagara peninsula recently.

His story of the history of the Niagara peninsula is of engaging interest. Here are a few of his statements:

The land of the district was once part of a sea bed. Stones that he saw while in the district prove conclusively to have been of sea origin.

Covered Twice by Ice.
Twice the area here was covered with ice of a thickness of from three to five thousand feet. Great boulders that can be seen in various parts of the Niagara peninsula clearly show that they originated in the far north, and could only have been transported by ice.

The upper lakes once had their outlet from Georgian Bay to Toronto. Then Lake Huron and Lake Erie found their outlet to the Hudson River at Home, N. Y.

Expects Third Era.
There are two eras in the world's history when all of Ontario was covered with ice. Undoubtedly there will still be a third era. The third era, however, is not expected to come for many years, but eventually is a certainty, in his opinion.

Dr. Coleman believes that the world by no means has settled down to its present facial complexion.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 10.—Accused of petit larceny, Mrs. Ella Rigner, 21, told an unusual story in police court of why she stole a silk shirt from a department store.

Mrs. Rigner said she was standing on a street corner when a well-dressed man stopped at her side.

"Go in that store and steal me a 15-12 size silk shirt," Mrs. Rigner said the man told her. "If you don't something terrible is going to happen to you."

"I was so frightened I walked into the store and picked up the first shirt I saw," she told Judge Wright.

Put On Extra Ship.
A special sailing for Port Arthur to lift cargo assembled here for Port Newark is announced today by James L. Bord, manager of the Transmarine corporation's Port Arthur terminals. The vessel for this special trip is scheduled to arrive about November 18, and was put into service because so much cargo is assembled here that ships in the regular service are not able to handle it, Bord said.

NIAGARA ONCE
ON BED OF SEA

Geologist Says 'Third Era' Is Near

BRIDGEBURG, Ont., Nov. 10.—That there were two eras in the history of the Niagara peninsula, when it was entirely covered with ice, and that undoubtedly there will be a third era, is the contention of Dr. A. P. Coleman, one of the most famous geologists in America, for many years on the staff of the University of Toronto, who was in the Niagara peninsula recently.

His story of the history of the Niagara peninsula is of engaging interest. Here are a few of his statements:

The land of the district was once part of a sea bed. Stones that he saw while in the district prove conclusively to have been of sea origin.

Covered Twice by Ice.
Twice the area here was covered with ice of a thickness of from three to five thousand feet. Great boulders that can be seen in various parts of the Niagara peninsula clearly show that they originated in the far north, and could only have been transported by ice.

The upper lakes once had their outlet from Georgian Bay to Toronto. Then Lake Huron and Lake Erie found their outlet to the Hudson River at Home, N. Y.

Expects Third Era.
There are two eras in the world's history when all of Ontario was covered with ice. Undoubtedly there will still be a third era. The third era, however, is not expected to come for many years, but eventually is a certainty, in his opinion.

Dr. Coleman believes that the world by no means has settled down to its present facial complexion.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

ARMOUR EMPLOYEES MAY PURCHASE STOCK NOW

The Armour meat packing company tells its 60,000 employees they can become silent partners in the business by buying preferred stock. This stock will be sold to employees on the installment plan. It will pay guaranteed dividends of 7 per cent.

Only a few years since the Armour firm was practically "a closed corporation." That is to say, the Armour family owned most of it and controlled all of it.

Observe a straw showing which way the wind's blowing.

There's really nothing unusual about the Armour method of letting employees buy an interest in the business. Many businesses already have the same system in operation. It's the ideal way to save. The method usually is for the employee to subscribe to pay so much a week, then that amount is regularly taken from his pay envelope.

The employee with stock in the business is more loyal and works harder. That's the theory, at any rate, and it averages true. So it's a definite part of the "efficiency" movement.

You never can tell where such a thing, once started, will lead. Take a business employing 100,000 men. If each of them invested $1000, there's a fund of 100 million dollars. Quite a fund, that.

Will the day come when employees, by their savings, will buy a controlling interest, then gradually take over the businesses that employ them? An interesting prospect, decidedly a possibility.

SOME AMERICAN FACTS

Wheat is not king, thunders the Chicago Tribune; high wages are better than cheap labor; Europe can't wreck our prosperity, only our own politicians can hurt us; this is the day of opportunity.

And then the Tribune tells the reason why. For many decades seventy-five per cent to eighty-five per cent of our exports consisted of food stuffs and raw materials, such as ore and cotton which others used in manufacturing. During recent years this situation has changed and now more than half the value of our exports is made up of manufactured products other than food stuffs.

In addition to selling a greater variety of merchandise we have multiplied the number of our outlets. For decades we sold seventy-five per cent to eighty-five per cent of our exports to Europe. Today only half the total goes to that continent and our markets in Canada, Mexico, South America and Asia are expanding.

And then the Tribune places before its readers an interesting table of figures. In 1914 imports represented $1,410,071,874; exports $1,467,401,989. And the figures of 1923 tell the story: Imports, $2,905,550,859; exports, $2,941,017,138. These figures should stagger the American politician or political howler who is forever telling of our foreign trade in pre-war years. The Tribune scores another point. Americans are exporting more bushels of wheat, more volume as well as more value, than in the years prior to the world war.

"And the home market grows swiftly," declares the Tribune. "It is estimated that our population, merely by surplus of births over deaths and with no allowance for immigration, is increasing at the rate of 1,367,000 annually. At this rate our population increase will, in about seven years, create new business equal to all our foreign trade with all foreign countries. Fifteen years ago it was believed that not more than eight hundred thousand families in the United States could afford to own automobiles. More than twelve million families now own cars and three million have already been produced in 1923. Business is as good as we make it." Take these facts home. They are worthy of repetition. Wheat is not king. High wages are better than cheap labor. Europe can't wreck our prosperity. Only our own politicians can hurt us. This is the day of opportunity. These timely hints are as applicable to the people of the southwest as they are to the people of Illinois and surrounding territory where the Chicago Tribune circulates.

GOOD TIMES TO CONTINUE

Reports of American bankers organizations, national credit men's institutions and other key organizations in the commercial system of the country, distributed on November 1st show their belief that the United States is entering the winter months with industries in good condition and financial structure excellent. These reports declare there is ample evidence to show that business generally will improve and in this connection frequent mention is made of the decided improvement in the agricultural situation. This notwithstanding the fact that fifty billion dollars of property in the United States escapes taxation every year.

Reins and relics left behind by men who lived in France eighty thousand years ago, were discovered by Dr. Henry D. Hall of the University of Pennsylvania Museum. Speaking of the first families, they have them in France.

MOVIE BOSS PLAN TO CUT

A battle apparently starts to reduce the cost of making movies, especially the fabulous salaries paid to movie stars. Adolph Zukor announces that the eastern and western Famous Players-Lasky film studios will shut down, halting work by 16 companies of movie actors. Some of the stars affected by the shut-down are Pola Negri, Bebe Daniels, William S. Hart, Gloria Swanson and Thomas Meighan.

Production costs are too high, in addition to overproduction, says Zukor. He says he's aiming for a lowering of movie salaries, cost of staging and mechanical expenses.

The making of movies is only secondarily an art. Primarily it is a business, as much so as selling sausages or hardware or groceries. The public knows this, and it naturally must be surprised that producers find the costs of making pictures too high, in view of what the public pays to see the films.

It is quite possible, and probable, that Zukor's shut-down will mean an end of "super-films" and a return to simplicity.

The theater met the same sort of crisis years ago. Shows had been running to the extremely spectacular. Production costs had become almost prohibitive. Then Eugene Walter wrote "Paid in Full," starting an epidemic of plays with small casts. Producers naturally liked the small cast idea; few actors to pay, few scenery changes. A show could be "tried out on the dog" without gambling much money.

The small cast injected real art into the American theater.

This bit of history may repeat in the movies.

The Referee

SKILL.
World's speed typewriting championship goes to Albert Pangora. He wrote 6120 words in an hour, making only 21 errors.

The average word has at least six letters, so Pangora hit the keys accurately nearly 90,000 times in an hour—or 1000 times a minute, about 17 a second. Each letter had to be carried to the eye, on to the brain, then telegraphed to the fingertips and aimed muscles. Thought is the fastest thing in the universe.

STIMES.

STAGING.
A girl invites a quarrel by wearing a red dress. Blue soothes the young man and attracts him. A girl's peculiar instinct that makes them shy away from green. A girl wearing much jewelry conveys the impression of being a spendthrift, while a plain dress suggests she is practical.

These and other psychological hints are given in the Y. W. C. A. course on etiquette for business girls, in Chicago.

The plot of life depends on the way it's staged. Even more so after marriage than before.

The scalper is a professional trader who operates in the various markets to make a fraction of a point profit. He is useful!

The scalper's existence is justifiable on the ground that he helps to make an active market for the legitimate investor.

The scalper becomes expert at reading the tape. He senses the drift of the market and rides with it. He only wants a fraction of a point profit and seldom stays in the market for the length of time.

This continual jumping in and out of the market makes lots of trading and enables the investor to get a closer market. The scalper is useful because he keeps the buying and selling prices close together.

YOUR HEALTH

Dr. C. C. Robinson

CIRRHOSIS.
The person who leads the "simple life" does not fall a victim to cirrhosis, or hardening of the liver.

This trouble, which always results fatally, unless taken under skillful treatment in its early stages, seems in the great majority of cases to be reserved for the high fliers in eating. Other favorite subjects are the "active" "fat" and the socially convivial souls, who drink a little to keep up custom but neglect or sidestep the real health of their bodies.

The disease is caused by over-eating of rich, highly seasoned foods, also by malaria, diabetes and the habitual use of alcoholic drinks. The obdurate drinker was a good subject for cirrhosis. The present-day drinker has no time to contract the disease. He succumbs too quickly to the modern drinks. The toxic or poisonous part of alcohol is carried directly to the liver unchanged, from the stomach and intestines.

It starts at once in its destructive work on the cells and connective tissue. The symptoms at first present nothing that seems to interfere with the normal circulation (blood circulation from the stomach, intestines and spleen, into and from the liver). Some loss of appetite, a decrease in weight, with a sluggish elimination, coated tongue and dyspepsia, are some follow-up symptoms.

The process of shrinking and hardening goes on all the time, however, until the liver is reduced in size and altered in shape. The glands and bile ducts at last become atrophied, while near the final stage the liver is filled with fat particles.

A yearly health examination by your physician will help you to avoid any such condition.

THIS LITTLE OLD WORLD

WASHINGTON BY HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Congestion of automobile traffic in the downtown sections of the larger cities has become a barrier to trade, merchants are finding. Shoppers who arrive their own cars either hesitate to brave the perils of the downtown jam or are unable to find parking space for their vehicles. So they are turning more and more to the small shops and outlying stores for their purchases.

Finding this situation, one large department store here has established a novel transportation service for its patrons.

In the "metropolitan area" of downtown Washington there is a police regulation preventing parking for more than 30 minutes. And what woman can "shop" in 30 minutes?

So this store operates a big, roomy automobile bus which makes the rounds of the outer limits of this restricted parking area. Would the shoppers simply park their cars in the uncongested, non-restricted streets and then ride the store's bus downtown, when their buying is done the bus takes them to the outlying section, where they pick up their own cars and proceed home.

If you have in your town an organization known as the "Alfalfa Club" do not be misled into the belief that it is a group of farmers interested in the culture of that profitable foreign plant, alfalfa.

"The Alfalfa club," says Harry V. Haynes, president of the Investment Bankers' association, "are so-called because of the established botanical fact that the alfalfa plant will go farther for a drink than any other known growth."

On his first introduction at one of these organizations, Haynes says, he experienced a fast so severe almost as to result in chills.

He had been mistaken for Prohibition Commissioner Haynes.

Secretary Mellon of the treasury set the full strength of the spotlight the other night at the banquet of a visiting bankers' organization.

Mellon, is personally, the most timid, shy and retiring man ever known in politics. He was watching, the proceedings quietly from a box at one side of the big room, doubtless wishing himself at home in his own study, when a bold-haired, decisive young woman danced into his enclosure, smiled, extended inviting arms and sang: "We Love You, Andy."

Yes, they got the spotlight. But even its revealing rays didn't disclose the cause of pleasure on the face of the distinguished secretary.

Shall booze come back? This talk of "wines and beer" is but a smoke screen. Under it appear the old, old enemies we fought to quell.

The ugly enemies out of hell. Who threatened all that tumbled life clean and dear.

Make no mistake, the issue stands forth clear!
The grip of drink is what we have to fear.
Shall we again yield to its evil spell? Shall booze come back?

Shall youth be ruined, womanhood made drear,
Manhood grow sad? Shall we once more rear
The shrines of booze 'mid which we shrink to dwell?
Think straight about this! Weigh the question well!

Advance? Retreat? We must decide at here!

That had never felt better. He smoked a cigar, ate cigarettes in a long top hat bordered with a row of diamonds and the letter Z. She had given it to him to examine when he exclaimed at its beauty.

"I am not what Mr. Dimwiddie's infernet!" She was looking at him eagerly.

"That you really are a friend of Countess Zatlany, but for some motive or other you are using her name instead of your own. That—that you had your own reasons for escaping from Austria."

"Escaping?"

"One was that you might have got into some political mess—restoration of Charles, or something."

She laughed outright.

Letter From Leslie Prescott to Leslie Prescott
Oh, little Marquise, little Marquise! I am in great trouble and I do not know which way to turn. Someone picked up the pearl I lost in the restaurant and has found out it is real and is trying to blackmail me.

I immediately called Alice, and Karl sent back for me to go to his lawyers. Just as I was reading the cable Jack came in and in my confusion I put it away and I cannot find it. I vaguely remember of trying to tear it up and then deciding that it was better to put it away until I could get further explanations.

Even you cannot help me now, little Marquise. What shall I do? What shall I do?

Poor Old Turkey Gobbler

"You know," remarked Betty Cut-Out to her brother Billy, when they had returned to their supper after the Bad Boy's charge upon the birds at their Poultry Show. "We have proved to our mother that we could have the turkey gobbler she is fattening for Thanksgiving at our show and make him get fatter all the time. He has gained three pounds since we started."

"Do you hear a noise?" inquired Billy anxiously, going to the window again. "Look," he shouted, Betty did, and when she saw the Bad Boy laughing in glee as the fat old gobbler, whom he had fattened to his kitchen, pulled him around the yard, urged on by a stick.

When Billy got there the old bird was so tired that he lay on his side. When Billy weighed him the next day, he had lost three pounds from running!

After the tragedy of the turkey, Billy hasn't the heart to run his Poultry Show longer. Color the yellow brown all over with a yellow back and red vent. Draw a knotted string up through the hole on the front of his wing and down through the back hole and under to the tongue of the kiddie car shown yesterday. The duck is gray with yellow feet and bill.

NEW DOCK TO BE MADE 8000 TONS

Section to Be Added on Its Arrival Here

Preparations for the enlarging of the new dock will be brought to Port Arthur will be launched as soon as the float is towed here. It was announced at the McEwan Shipbuilding and Repairing company this morning.

The dock was originally designed for an 8,000 ton capacity, and was built in six sections. During the time it has been in service, however, its capacity was cut to 7,000 tons when one of the sections was eliminated.

The sixth section will be constructed here at the local shipbuilding yards and added to the structure soon after its arrival here.

The dock purchased from the United States Shipping board is of the latest mechanical design, and is thoroughly electrically operated. When the sixth section is completed and the lifting power raised to 8,000 tons, the float will be on a bar with the average dock engaged in the Gulf coast repair yard.

The dock is of the accepted design of such floats, being sunk to the waters level, by pumping water into its ballast tanks. The ship is towed into position on the stocks and as the water is pumped out of the tanks, the pontoons rise, bringing the ship clear of the water.

With a lifting power of roughly 8,000 tons the biggest ships that ply these waters can be accommodated as few if any of the ships have a tare weight exceeding 8,000 tons.

America's Favorite Songs

"AMERICA"

Dozens of nations have used the tune of "My Country 'Tis of Thee" for a national song. The most familiar version is the English "God Save the King" and the German "Heil dir am Siegerkranz."

We are told poems, music, and the German of it from the earnest who had sung by Finny, who most likely was not it from the lips, who doubtless brought it to the United States.

Despite the uncertainty as to the composer of "America," there is no doubt as to its author, the Rev. Samuel F. Smith. It was at the age of 21, while a student at Andover Theological Seminary, in 1822, that Dr. Smith wrote the famous anthem.

It happened that Lowell Mason, the noted composer and organist was interested in some school music books brought back from Germany by William C. Woodbridge, Mason having no knowledge of German, turned them over to Smith and asked him to translate or write new texts.

The young student was attracted by one tune in particular. He noted that the words were patriotic, "And I was instantly inspired," he relates, "to write a patriotic hymn of my own. Seizing a scrap of paper I began to write and in half an hour it was done."

The following Fourth of July the song was sung at a children's celebration in Boston. The author soon began to hear of the hymn being sung widely, and later the Civil War brought it into universal requisition.

What is your favorite American song? Is it in this list? Send your choice to Kenneth S. Clark, Community Service, 315 Fourth avenue, New York, as part of a nation-wide vote.

Returns to the Army
After Year in Pulpit
KALAMAZOO, Mich., Nov. 10.—After a year's service in the ministry as pastor of the Congregational church at Mattawan, the Rev. D. F. Townsend has resigned to re-enter the army. He will be stationed in Kalamazoo and will have charge of a three-year recruiting campaign here with the rank of sergeant.

Mr. Townsend entered the army as a private in 1915. The frequent absence of the chaplain of his regiment, during which he took the divine place, developed his ability and led the Rev. J. W. Sutherland, superintendent of the Michigan Congregational conference to ask for his discharge from the army that he might take the vacant pastorate at Mattawan.

Born-Bruin Clash Today Classic of Southern Conference

Stewart Uses Psychology Against Trickery of Bears

Pumps Placed To Win, But Odds Take Tumble; Recent Grid Clashes Make Coach Bridges Prodiges Formidable Squad for Varsity

By BILL ARCHER

WITH his team trained to the finest point of attacking the break plays of Bruin ingenuity, and with profound admiration drilled into the heads of his proteges for the Bear assault and trickery, Coach "Hurricane" Stewart and his squad of Longhorns are in Waco today to match wits with the best of Coach Bridges' men.

It is easily one of the biggest classics of the present Southern Conference race. Tonight, when the bets have all been paid and the "I-told-you-so's" have all been flaunted 'till the tale is sour from its rottenness, it may be classified as the sorriest game of the race.

But just now, with the game unplayed and the strength of the opposing eleven reckoned from all angles—the Bruins with their trick formations and line plunging, the Longhorns with their ramming, battering attacks—the gridiron clash between Texas and Baylor is the much-talked-about, much-looked-for Southern Conference classic.

In 14 games that Texas has faced Baylor, the Longhorns have carried away 12. But in recent years, the strength of the Bruins has come to be a thing that spreads nothing short of doubt in the hearts of the Longhorn squad.

The record of the past follows:
1901—Texas 22; Baylor 0.
1902—Texas 46; Baylor 0.
1903—Texas 50; Baylor 0.
1904—Texas 50; Baylor 0.
1905—Texas 37; Baylor 11.
1906—Texas 37; Baylor 5.
1907—Texas 17; Baylor 5.
1908—Texas 11; Baylor 0.
1909—Texas 18; Baylor 7.
1910—Texas 77; Baylor 0.
1911—Texas 37; Baylor 0.
1912—Texas 3; Baylor 7.
1913—Texas 0; Baylor 3.
1914—Texas 28; Baylor 12.

For a solid week, Coach Stewart has been teaching his men to respect the strength of Coach Bridges' proteges. Just what the psychological effect of this training will mean for the Longhorns cannot be told until tomorrow; but it has all meant to make the Texas fight. Fight as they never fought in other years; fight just like they must fight Turkey day.

And Coach Stewart seems to be able to get the kind of stuff out of the Longhorns better than any recent mentor Texas has had.

Prior to the Baylor-aggie game, Austin men were betting strong on the Longhorns to win from Baylor, and giving 13 to 14 point odds. "But it was a sick bunch that gathered around the Raleigh hotel after that game, and their odds had dropped to 3," Stewart is credited with having said of the gamblers.

Texas is going into the field this afternoon feeling trick plays; taught to fear Bruin trickery; and Texas is prepared. The game is a classic right now. But tonight it might read quite unclassical.

Texas will beat Baylor, even with the game on Bruin territory. But the victory will not make Texas any more formidable against A. M. Turkey day.

That game must always be respected for its fighting merit, regardless of other games.

I am interested in golf but have never played the game. I read the accounts of the big tournaments with as much interest as a world series game but not nearly so intelligently. At various times I notice the expression that this or that player gets a birdie on a certain hole or an eagle on the next one. Please explain the use of birdie and eagle?—G. H. H.

In golf there is a par score for every hole. We will assume that a certain hole on a golf course measures 300 yards. The official distance for competing par is that all holes measure from 261 to 445 yards are par 4 holes. To make such a hole in 4 would be considered perfect play—par. When a player makes a hole in one under par he is said to have scored a birdie. To play a par 4 hole in three would be getting a birdie on that hole. To play a hole in two under par is getting an eagle, as the making of a par 4 hole in 2.

Please explain a "threeone" in golf?
In a threeone, one player plays the entire ball without two playing one ball, so in a threeone.

WANT TOO MUCH—MUGGYS
By United Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Chances are a thousand to one against a deal that would bring Rogers Hornsby to the Giants from the St. Louis Cardinals, according to John McGraw, manager of the Giants.
"They want too much for Hornsby," McGraw said.
Sun Brandon, president of the Cardinals, and Branch Rickey, his manager, are expected to talk to the Giants officials today before they start back to St. Louis.

Other Colleges Have Unbalanced Schedules
One of the tragedies of the 1923 football season has been the record of the Pittsburgh Lions. Possibly the team is as powerful a gang of ruffians as ever assembled to enjoy a prosperous season. Yet now its tally stands: Won, 2; lost, 4, and the boys from the Smoke City don't deserve the stigma. The schedule maker is at fault.
As an appetizer Pittsburgh was handed the lumpy Bucknell eleven. There was a team that later sandwiched two touchdowns from Yale; yet Pittsburgh triumphed it. Next came Lafayette, on an early season date when Susquehanna or Villanova would have been more appropriate. Yet the Pittsburgh team nabbed another victory.
But now following West Virginia, Syracuse, Carnegie Tech and Pennsylvania in a rapid succession. It was too much. No football team should digest such a lot of bear meat. When the mauling and entangling died, Pittsburgh was one of the most thoroughly defeated eleven in the east.
The case of Nebraska is equally sad with needless tragedy. Nebraska had a year quite as strong this year as of yore. Yet it has lost one of the strongest eleven in the Missouri Valley conference. And what has it been asked to claw at? Nothing less than Illinois, Oklahoma, Missouri and Kansas, with Notre Dame staring it in the face today.

CAN A MANAGER BE SLANDERED?
McTigue's Former Guide Raises Question
By WESTBROOK PEGLER
NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—A man named Joe Jacobs has raised the question whether a fight manager can be slandered.
Mr. Jacobs, late manager of Mike McTigue, known by courtesy as a fighter, has brandished certain legalistic papers at his quondam good provider, saying he would sue McTigue in the courts already for slanderous allegations emitted by Mickey himself. Josef displays another paper, too, purporting to be a contract which Mickey signed on the ground that it never was legal and therefore is void.
The quarrel between Mike McTigue and Josef Jacobs, in itself is unimportant, Mickey being no great fighter and Mr. Jacobs having created no such confusion in the world of finance as Jack Kearns occasioned in Montana where three banks caved in beneath his pressure. However, they raise a question of world stirring significance: "Can a Fight Manager be Slandered?"

Plans Comeback
NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Johnny Wilson, relieved of his title by Harry Greb during the summer, made such a great fight against a middleweight named Robinson recently in Boston that the New York Boxing commission welcomes a return fight for Wilson against Greb at the homecoming contest here tomorrow will be which Greb and Wilson have signed articles.

Babe Ruth certainly was entitled to be selected as the most valuable player in the American League for the 1923 season. Here are just a few of the many feats he performed: He played in every game. Scored 151 runs and made 205 hits for the remarkable average of .394. Received 171 bases on balls. In every game he played he reached first base just a fraction of the time. In scoring runs, hitting homers and receiving passes Babe led his league.

SENIOR CHAMP PAR GOLFER AT 60

By JOE WILLIAMS

HUGH HAINSELL, of Dallas, Tex., at the age of 60 shot 36 holes in 136 strokes and won the national seniors' golf championship. To be able to play tournament golf at the age of 60 is unusual. To be able to travel at a par clip over an extended stretch is remarkable.

In many respects the veteran Hainsell is the most striking figure in American golf. A nervous break-down drove him to the game at the age of 42. Prior to then he was not a player. Hainsell developed a fine game and at 57 became the champion senior player of the country, shattering, among other things, the theory that to acquire rare skill one must start as a youth.

Three years past and Hainsell repeats as champion of the seniors. This time he posted a splendid 136. In 1920 when he first won his score was 162. Instead of slipping he is getting better. A six-stroke improvement is noted in the comparative figures. Incidentally, Hainsell's total of 136 is a new record for the event.

Keeping his tee shots straight and playing his irons with a professional deftness the Texan was firing with par most of the time. On his first round he scored a 77. Taking his second round he posted a 59. His best golf was played on the first nine in the first round where he was two under even 48 for six holes—a sport that Bobby Jones might well have envied.

There were no youngsters in the tournament Hainsell won. You must be 50 or better to play in the national seniors. However, Hainsell is probably better than a large percentage of the youngsters and young men who win club championships throughout the country. Few players in the game could afford to give him a stroke on the long holes and hope to beat him.

That's why golf is a great game, possibly the greatest of all games. It brings youth and age together on a somewhat similar basis.

We recall that Mrs. Caleb Fox of Philadelphia, 60, and a grandmother of 10, defeated Glenna Collett a few months after the young Providence girl had won the national championship.

And Harry Vardon at 50 was pre-

PAL MAY GET DUNDEE SCRAP

Bout Awaits Rodeo Now Showing At Garden

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Pal Moran, the New Orleans boy with the bric-a-brac knuckles who knocked Charlie White out of the ring and back into the pants professions a few weeks ago, probably will get a 15-rounds fight with Johnny Dundee here when the cowboy and the rampant king of the ropes have cleared out of Madison Square Garden.

The disorderly live stock has entered upon a two weeks' quarantine in the bow of the Garden swimming pool and rough conduct will be twice a day in a metropolitan imitation of Shelby, Mont.

Benny Leonard has run out of customers for his light-eight championship, which is just as well from his point of view, because he prefers to withhold his right cross until the summer time. By then, either Dundee or Moran will protrude above the other lightweights and Leonard will be assured at least one opponent match in the open air.

LITTLE LESSONS IN BIG SPORTS
DOUBLE PASSING PLAY (CRISS-CROSS)

① TAKES BALL ON RUN
③ BLOCKS RIGHT END
⑤ RIGHT TACKLE INTERFERES

What is your opinion of the double passing play? When should it be used? How?
Answered by "JOHN" REISMAN

Coach of football, Washington and Jefferson University, former Coach of University of Pennsylvania. The 1912 Georgia Tech team, which he coached, was unanimously chosen as the best team in the country.

The double-pass—also known as the "criss-cross" and the "reverse"—was one of the earliest and best trick plays in the game. It is still a good and dependable stock play with some of the best teams in the country, and that because it has been immeasurably improved by coaches having worked out methods of giving it straight interfering support. The play should never be attempted near the line, nor when the ball is on a goal, nor on last down. It is best to "spring" it suddenly following a series of successful blocking maneuvers when the opposing tackles will have been drawn in two lines.

Football Facts

By BILLY EVANS

QUESTION:
On the fourth down with seven yards to gain the team in possession of the ball decides to punt on the next play. The kicker gets off a long spiral. Seeing that it is a difficult punt to handle, the quarterback of the opposition elects to make a fair catch. He signals for a fair catch in the customary manner. He fumbles the ball and it bounces a considerable distance from the point where the signal for the fair catch had been made. The player who had signaled for the catch recovered possession of the ball and ran the length of the field for a touchdown. What about this play?

ANSWER:
When a player signals for a fair catch, opponents who are off side shall not in any way interfere with him or the ball. However, in order to complete the fair catch it is necessary that the player who so signals retain possession of the ball. The moment the ball is fumbled by the player who elects to make the fair catch it is a free ball, and the rules governing a fair catch no longer apply. In the case cited the referee should have allowed a touchdown when the player who had signaled for a fair catch recovered his own fumble and ran the length of the field for a touchdown.

Italy Has a Firpo
MILAN, Italy, Nov. 10.—Erminio Spalla, the Italian who boxed preliminary fights around New Jersey a few years ago, has become the Firpo of Italy.

Having beaten all the heavyweights who could be found in Italy, Spalla has become a hero with his own people and negotiations are on for a fight between him and the Argentine.

Will Build Clubhouse
PUT-IN-BAY, O., Nov. 10.—Plans are under way for the erection of a new clubhouse for the Put-in-Bay Yacht club, it was announced yesterday. Commodore A. C. Smith of the yacht club said he would supply gratis all rough timber needed to build the new dock.

FACE WEAK CREW
NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Cornell's great eleven, one of the outstanding teams of the east, faced the weak Columbia eleven at the Polo Grounds here this afternoon. Despite the inequality of the contest a crowd of 25,000 was attracted. Weather conditions were ideal and the field was fast.

GOT THE BREAKS
NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Hank Gowdy of the Giants and Ernie Johnson of the Yankees sure got a great break in getting into the world series. Boston tried to waive Gowdy out of the National League as did the White Sox. Johnson, the two New York clubs refused to waive Johnson thereby profiting to the extent of better than $3000 and Gowdy more than $4000.

ZEV AND SANDE STEP UP AGAIN

May Mean Another Titular Turf Tangle

PIMLICO, Md., Nov. 10.—Although Zez is no longer a champion, Zev was as much better than the other two horses in the third section of the Pimlico serial weight-for-age race Thursday, that he won with the brakes on and paid only 50 cents for 82 in the pari-mutuel machines. It was Zev's first race since the disaster at La-Tonin last Saturday in which he lost his title of 3-year-old champion and mislaid much of his prestige.

Home stretch, owned by H. Alterman, was second. Tryster, Scott P. Haydon's horse, also ran.

Carl Sande, who went up to the top with Zev in the recent international race, and slid down with him in the Pimlico championship, again was on hand Harry Steward's out. At the mile he was so far ahead of Home stretch that Sande could have run him backward the rest of the distance without losing. Sande eased up then and finished in a gallop, three lengths to the good. The distance was one mile and one-eighth.

SOME RETURN
PIMLICO, Md., Nov. 10.—A two-dollar bill, passed on the nose of a selling-plat in the Pimlico race here today. The southern owner was also to play without Hunt, the regular favorite as much as a $7000 wager on Zev.

Seeking Braves
NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Murry McHale, one-time pitcher for the Boston Braves and the old Yankees, has in the past his old boss, Bill Carrigan, and Pauley McFarland, former light-weight prizefighter, in a proposal that they buy the Boston Braves, according to a story published in New York.

Carrigan, winner of two world championships with the Red Sox, believes that he could build a winning team and paying clientele if he had the Braves franchise.

MAY PROHIBIT COURT STARS USING MONICKERS
LONDON, Nov. 10.—Complaints against the growing practice by star and near-star tennis players of warring tournaments under assumed names will be dealt with at the December meeting of the Lawn Tennis association.

A rule is to be proposed that no player, having used an assumed name, shall use another during the same year without the consent of the association.

Lajoie's Weakness
Larry Lajoie, now that he is out of baseball, says that a fast ball right through the heart of the plate was the hardest ball for him to hit. "I liked a ball just outside that I could crack into right field or one on the inside that I could pull down the third-base line," says Larry.

BIG SEND-OFF
MADISON, Nov. 10.—Although Badger hopes have been dampened by Gerber's ineptitude and discouraging reports about the condition of the team, the Wisconsin squad was given one of the biggest send-offs in football history here.

DOPESTERS HAVE IT FIGURED OUT

But Dope, However, May Not Run to Form

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Football dopsters have analyzed today's gridiron program in the middle west so thoroughly that everything seems to be over but the cheering and the short-tail parades.

Nonconference games hold the greatest interest, with the center ring laid down in Lincoln, Neb. There Nebraska will make a valiant attempt to turn back the undefeated Irish from Notre Dame. The Cornhuskers will outweigh the computers of Princeton and the Army six pounds to the man on the line, and a good ten pounds in the backfield. They have been strengthened, too, it is said, by a week of intensive, secret practice.

But still Rockne's men are the favorites everywhere. Even in Lincoln where some betting Friday in which supporters of Notre Dame gave the cornhuskers an advantage of as much as 20 points.

Michigan will meet the Marines at Ann Arbor, in a game to be important if for no other reason because of the number of prominent people among them Secretary of the Navy Donaghy, a former Wolverine, who will be in the stadium. The game is figured close, with the Hornecks at a slight disadvantage.

Down at Urbana, the Wisconsin Badgers, ranking under the sting brought by expulsion of their star tackle, Goebel, for coaching a Y. M. C. A. swimming team, will try to stop the fiery Grange and thus trouble Illinois. Aside from their scores tie with Minnesota, the Badgers have not had a real test. But they do not look nearly as strong as the conference leaders. They might, however, do what Chicago couldn't—smother Grange—and then things might be different.

Students Hold Rousing Meet Prior to Clash
By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Staff Correspondent
PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 10.—Urged on by the student body in a sense that they can't lose and spurred by the admonition of the president that they must not lose, the Princeton Tigers were choking with confidence as they put in the last week for the game with Harvard to day.

In a huge rally last night, when the undergraduates built fire and whooped and howled all over the place, President Hibben told the players "Princeton has not suffered a defeat at the hands of Harvard since the war and this year must be no exception."

Dempsey Quits As "Social" Champion
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10.—Jack Dempsey announced that he is not living in his palatial Western avenue mansion any more because of his friends. Instead, he has taken an apartment scarcely big enough to turn around in.

The friends meant well, Jack says, but they prevented his housework from dropping into a regular routine because they would pour in and out and then his servants and cooks would walk out.

GRAND DAY FOR FIRST OF "BIG THREE" TILTS
PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 10.—Until sometime later than 2 o'clock this afternoon everything will be grand in this picturesque little college town where the first of the "big three" battles will be fought.

Harvard and Princeton, humbled members of the sacred trio, humbled among the 60,000 gathered here for the game with high hopes that would last until sometime after the whistle of the referee started the demise of one fond dream.

OPPOSE GEORGIA TECH
STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 10.—With a team weakened by the loss of Captain Bodak, star line-man, and Mike Palm, regular quarterback, Penn State went against Georgia Tech here today. The southern eleven was also to play without Hunt, the regular favorite as much as a $7000 wager on Zev.

LINE UNCHANGED
COLUMBIA, Nov. 10.—Missouri's lineup against Oklahoma at the homecoming contest here today is unchanged with Moulter, scrappy little quarterback, running the team. The Tigers went through a light six-day drill Friday. Authorities have made preparations to entertain more than 10,000 homecomers.

The usual thrower makes believe he is about to throw, making the ball up and back of him somewhat as a waiter holds a platter, and another back, running around to the rear of the line, snatches the ball for the purpose of encircling the drawn-in ends and tackling of the defense or actually throwing it to a designated receiver.

The direction of the run from A to B is determined by the position of the defensive back C.
I can well imagine that some of my readers have smiled broadly when they have seen the good old platter play included in this series. Just the same, if it is executed correctly and at the appropriate moment, it might break up many a game. I have seen it work havoc with the best of them.
After the fake pass we will consider Play No. 9, a forward pass after a try-up pass.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS By Olive Roberts Barton

"Hello, there!" called Nancy. "Is this where you live?"

"Cuckoo! Cuckoo! Cuckoo! Cuckoo!" went a bird in a magnolia tree right over the heads of the Twins.

The children looked up in surprise. "Hello, there!" called Nancy. "Is this where you live?"

"No, no!" answered the bird. "We live in Dixie Land! What are cuckoos?"

"Don't you know?" exclaimed Nancy looking at Nick as much as to say, "Well, of all the undisciplined people we have ever met on our travels, this one is the worst." "Why it is something to tell time by," she said.

"That's queer," declared the bird. "I always tell time by the sun. I get up when the sun gets up and go to bed when it does. Does a clock go to bed and get up in the morning? And why do cuckoo birds live in them?"

Nancy told the cuckoo bird all about clocks, and how some of them were built in the shape of a little house with a tiny door up under the roof which opened when the clock struck the hour. And she told how cuckoo birds came out of the doors and sang out "Cuckoo" as many times as there were hours marked on the clock.

"That's queer," said the cuckoo when Nancy had finished. "I've seen many birds of my own kind and not one of them ever told me about a clock before."

"Oh, but these are only pretend birds," explained Nancy. "They are so cunningly made they look and act real, but they aren't at all. I know all about it grandma had one."

Suddenly a new voice spoke from another branch of the magnolia tree. "There's nothing strange at all that! For a pretend cuckoo live in a pretend house. Why, rather, they pretend that other people's houses are theirs and they themselves live right at home."

There was a flash of bright light among the branches and Mister Lucky Cardinal flew down with gossiping distance. "I never saw myself, but it's common talk in I land that cuckoos never build a nest for themselves, but lay their eggs in the nests of other birds when the birds are away. When the bird comes back and sits upon eggs again, she never notices that has laid a visitor and so she goes sitting and keeping her eggs warm and when they hatch out, one of them is a cuckoo."

"Are you sure about that, Mister L.?" asked Mister L. "Sure!" Well I ought to be, this very minute Mister Warbler has laid a visitor and she doesn't know it to do about it."

"Let's go and see," suggested Nancy. "You lead the way, M. Cardinal, and we'll all follow!"

CHILD'S STORY OF THE HUMAN RACE By Uncle Ray

CHAPTER 30. The Story in a Hall's Room

In a museum at Copenhagen, Denmark, there is a hall of the skeleton of a wild bull which grazed in the fields of Denmark ten or fifteen thousand years ago.

The bones of this animal were found in the bed of a dried-up lake. With the remains were several arrowheads. Two of the ribs showed the mark of arrow wounds. One wound had healed before the animal died. The other had never healed. Unburied in the bone was still a piece of the flint arrowhead.

What story lies back of this skeleton? Something like the following: In the latter part of the Stone Age a hunter was seeking prey. He beheld a bull fitted an arrow at it. The arrow missed the bull, which began running away with all its might. The hunter shot another arrow, and this time struck the animal in the upper part of one of its ribs. The wound was slight, however. The bull kept running and escaped. In time the wound healed.

On another day, this same wild creature was out browsing in a meadow. A hunter carrying a bow and a number of arrows happened along. He saw the bull, fitted an arrow at his bow, and sent it whizzing through the air. The brute was struck in the lower part of one of its ribs. The wound was serious but not mortal.

The hunter gave chase, firing arrow after arrow—sometimes hitting, sometimes missing.

The bull left a trail of blood as it ran. Finally it came to a lake and plunged in. Reaching the shore—hot and quivering—the hunter went another arrow at his intended victim.

This arrow struck home. The bull lay swimming heavily, but less of blood and the last cruel arrow wound proved too much. It gasped and gave up—slinking to the bottom of the lake.

The hunter saw the animal and was wroth. He realized that would be foolish to go far out in the lake and try to recover the carcass. So he turned away and sought game.

The time came when the hunter died, as did his children and their children. Thousands of years passed. The lake began drying and there was a marsh where it had been. Shrubbery and trees grew the marsh.

As more centuries rolled by, plant life died away. The stumps, branches and leaves were formed dry peat, which people burn today.

One day in recent years, a man was digging up some of this peat. About ten feet down, he noticed the skeleton of the bull! The bones were examined carefully, and to the story I have just related.
